

The Daily Courant.

Friday, February 23. 1722.

Algiers, January 13.

SIX of our Ships are sailed from this Port to cruize off of the Coasts of Spain. One of our Corsairs has taken and brought hither a Neapolitan Vessel laden with Coin for Malta. The Regency of this Place has sent to Com-mend the Bey of Tunis on the Discovery of the Conspiracy against his Person, with Orders to assist him in case of Need.

Petersbourg, Jan. 27. Abundance of warlike Stores arrive here daily from Finland. The Regiments that are come from thence march one after the other towards Moscow, and from thence 'tis said they are to proceed to the Borders of the Caspian Sea. On the 24th Instant the Ceremony of blessing the Water was performed here as usual. The frosty Weather is at present very moderate. So great a Number of Robbers infest this City, that scarcely a Night passes without several Houses being broke open and plundered: 30 Thieves have already been apprehended; one was broke alive upon the Wheel the last Week, and the rest were either hanged, beheaded, or bastinado'd, after the Russian manner. They confessed that they come hither from Moscow in a Gang of 250; one or other of them are daily taken up, and effectual Methods will be used to exterminate them. The last Accounts from Moscow say, that although the Carneval and other Diversions are begun at Court, yet daily Councils are held, in which the Military Scheme has its Share of Attention.

Danzick, Feb. 3. The Duke of Mecklenbourg continues still incognito in this City, and passes under the Name and Quality of Colonel Bishaff: 'tis the Opinion of some Persons that he will not go at all to Russia, and that he is even hindered from that Journey by the Czar; 'tis certain however that the Duke will not stir from hence till the Czar is returned to Petersbourg, and that 'tis known what Answer the Emperour sends to his last Letter: The Dutchess of Mecklenbourg is not yet brought to Bed. The last Accounts from Petersbourg and Moscow say, that the Czar will not stir out from his Capital till the middle of next Month; that he will then go to Olonitsa for the Benefit of the Waters, and may probably begin his Journey for Petersbourg about the end of April; his Physicians advised him to try the Mineral Waters lately discovered near Petersbourg, but the Czar would not be persuaded, saying, he has found too much Benefit by those at Olonitsa to make any Experiment of others. The Accounts of the Czar's Preparations for an approaching Campaign are still repeated, but the Purposes of his Armament he keeps to himself. Major General Gunter lately solicited the Magistrates here to obtain the Government of this City; but that Solicitation proved fruitless: He is now fallen Sick, and has deferred his Departure from hence for some Time.

Vienne, Feb. 7. This Court continues to divert itself with Carneval Pleases; and Operas serious and Comical have their alternative Days of Representation, 32 among the Chief of the Nobility, chosen by Lot, are by this Day Sent night to prepare a Masquerade to be shown before the Emperour for his Diversion. The publick Affairs are not in the mean time neglected; a grand Council was held Yesterday, his Imperial Majesty being present; 'tis infer'd that the subject Matter of it regarded the Assembly of the States of Hungary, because Count Palfi, Palatine of that Kingdom, was particularly summoned to attend. Advices from Warsaw say, that a Turkish Agent arrived here from Chocsim, to confer with the Great Marschal, and that it was reported the Grand Signior designs an Embassy to the King of Poland. It is also said, that a great Quantity of Brass Cannon and Granadoes are getting ready at Constantinople. His Imperial Majesty has appointed more Commissioners to go and examine into the Affairs of Mecklenbourg, and Duchy of Schwerin, with Orders to give their utmost Assistance for maintaining the Nobility in their just Privileges, but to proceed in their Commission with as much Gentleness as the Nature of the Case will bear. The Marquess de Almanara is made Admiral of the Neapolitan Gallies.

Hambourg, Feb. 20. Yesterday the Muscovite Minister here received an Order from Petersbourg, dated the 26th of January last, to use his best Endeavours to discover and cause to be apprehended M. Turholm, who is supposed to be come this Way from Petersbourg, where he lately resided in Quality of Secretary to the Embassy of Denmark; it is said to be indebted a considerable Sum of Money to the Czar's Treasury, and likewise to several Merchants: This is the Person, who being suddenly withdrawn some time ago from Petersbourg, gave Occasion to a Report that he was drown'd. The publick Lottery of this City will begin Drawing on the 24th Instant: it is generally looked upon to be an advantageous one. The Contentions among the Ecclesiasticks of this Place seem hush'd for the present, but the whole Body of the Holstein Clergy are much offended at the Preacher Neumister, for his calling them all Pietists; and intend to send some of their Fraternity to him, on purpose to have an Explication of that Term, and to know what Reason he has for bestowing it upon them.

Geneva, Feb. 23. The Accounts from France concerning the infected Places grow better. Letters of the 14th say, that the Plague is looked upon to be entirely ceased in the Gevranes, the Cevennes, and the Vivarets; that the Inhabitants on this side the Line, from Rouergue to Avergne, begin to recover from their Apprehensions; that only 20 Persons remained in the Infirmaries at Alais, and that those are in a Way of doing well; that 'tis expected the Infirmaries at Mende would soon be shut up; and that the chief Employment of the Inhabitants in most Places is in cleansing and disinfecting their Houses. Avignon is not yet freed from the Plague. Orange continues well.
